This comment is in reference to Resolution 20-22R

As it stands this resolution addresses residency but is limited in requirements to establish need-based applications. Already established in the community is the sliding scale used at Dahl Memorial Clinic owned and managed by the Municipality of Skagway which receives federal funds for the care of citizens needing health care Who may be denied that care due to income based limitations.

In order to administer this money fairly according to need, the Resolution should include a sliding scale. This could be simply determined by deciding the scale and then requiring a copy of the last income tax statement from the applicant. As a version of this is already operational, it could be adapted and used without significant loss of time or increase in reviewing applications Thank you,
