While not a TBMP guideline, all members are highly encouraged to review this health addendum to the TBMP Guidelines for 2022 and be prepared to put the appropriate measures in place (as necessary) to mitigate the potential transmission of highly contagious viral diseases.

We simply suggest you have a health and sanitation plan for staff and guests and that you maintain and update the plan as needed. TBMP members are encouraged to train staff and monitor and enforce policy implementation as required by applicable local, state and federal regulations and mandates, including any protocols mutually agreed to by Industry and the Municipality (MOS) in an effort to support a successful visitor season in 2022.

Because businesses are different and operate in a myriad of ways, each TBMP member may create, maintain and enforce a health and sanitation plan tailored to their specific operations.

Businesses may consider the following based on where we are with Covid strategies and mitigation as the season approaches:

- staff and guests may wash hands frequently and hand sanitizer may be available.
- common touch points may be minimized.
- staff wellness screenings may be conducted with appropriate frequency.
- staff and guests may wear face coverings when interacting in confined spaces (gathering areas, transportation, offices, tour venues) and indoors/outdoors where social distancing cannot be achieved. Procedures may be based on local, state and federal regulations and mandates at the time.
- staff and guests may follow social distancing/capacity guidelines based on local, state and federal regulations and mandates at the time.
- appropriate cleaning protocols and frequencies of all gathering areas, transportation, offices, equipment, etc. may be incorporated in the plan.
- training (initial and refresher) of all staff may be incorporated in the plan.
- the plan and protocols may be available upon request of staff or guests and may be shared on the business website.
- protocols may be briefly summarized and posted where possible at the place of business and/or place where staff and guests gather (gathering areas, tour venues, transportation, offices, etc.).
